Voice Enhancement

Voice enhancement is available for those of you that desire to include singing along with your ministry in the Word of God. Maybe you just need a vocal tune up to poise you for singing a song before or to climax your preaching. Singing can be very complimentary along side preaching if it is presented discreetly and timely. A song can give peak to the closing of a sermon. You've probably seen it don't by many ministers. Especially people who are called "Singing Preachers"

Examples: Pastor Jimmy Swagger, Bishop Paul Martin Sr., Pastor R.L. White, Pastor Timothy Flemmings, Pastor D, etc..

Singing, like all other gifts, can be learned and improved thru training. Very often, a minister has not used his or her voice enough to really understand their own voice potential. Come work with me and give it a try! You may stay with me as long as you like. If indeed you are interested in 'Tune Up" voice training, create a list of songs that you hope to sing. Let us come together and see what we can accomplish for the glory of God and the enhancement of your ministry.

Hello!
Man & Woman of God

May God abundantly bless your ministry in every way to glorify the Lord.

Your schedule and agenda as a minister can be exceedingly busy and congested. It's very difficult for a busy minister to get settle down enough to prepare weekly sermon outlines & Bible study info. This can easily turn into a habit of throwing making last-minute sermon bytes, merged with a bit of Sunday charisma, congregational feedback, and a climaxing "HOOP". WOW! You've made it through another Sunday. Potentially, this often becomes an almost weekly routine of making weekend-based sermon notes.

But be aware! Preaching and writing skills are two very different masteries. Writing skill is typically developed by people who write frequently, thus making them more communication and grammar conscious. Frankly, how much time have you invested into writing knowledge? Admittedly, we all could use more writing skills. The value of this can truly be appreciated after attending a season of these classes.

Maybe your maturity in the ministry has already made you secure with compiling sermon outlines. BRAVO for you! Keep up the good work.

My years in the ministry has brought me to an expected conclusion that it is a common practice for ministers to over-write their sermons or use loosely organized scratch notes. Some ministers even feel sermon notes are unnecessary. Yet "Truth is Truth" whether written or spoken.
Preparing sermon notes and creating Bible study literature is a common facet of my daily agenda as a preacher of the Gospel. In the pursuit of excellence, and like many preaches, I had no coaching in sermon preparation and decided to explorer better ways to give sermon outlines more impact and communication flow.

Let us come together for a season and work toward beautifying your sermon notes for God's glory and the spread of the Gospel. I do sincerely enjoy this field of study and appreciate the importance of writing and communication skills.

Your Ministry Staff can also benefit from this type of training. It's a mustard seed size cost as compared to the colossal tuition of formal schools. Formal school training is extremely valuable but usually do not include sermon preparation. My private classes include many levels of general computer training, caters more to your personal needs,and is more engaging.

I humbly pray you understand that my inviting you to work with me for a season isn't presuming you doesn't know how to prepare a sermon. Rather, it's just to help you realize the potential of your sermons with a bit of private coaching. It will save you a great deal of time considering how busy your ministry itinerary can be along with knowing only a little about the computer. I look forward to assisting you in this regard. Pray about it, call me, and lets get started. Absolutely! The congregation will begin to recognize the difference in your sermon presentation.

IMPORTANT! Lessons are based strictly on using the KJV Bible! Resolving conflicts about Bible Versions is "My specialty Subject" and is available for those of you that are interested in this very controversial subject.
